

Study Skills Tips

You have to develop many different types of skills to be a successful student. You need skills that help you study, organize, manage your time, take tests, take notes, and cope with stress.

STUDY SKILLS

1. Find your own quiet place at home to study where you can concentrate and do better on your homework.
2. When studying, sit in a comfortable chair but not one that is TOO comfortable.
3. Don't do homework in front of the TV – it is too distracting. While you're at it, try to ignore the telephone – your friends can leave a message!
4. Quiet background music might help you stay focused while you are studying.
5. Study with a friend or a group of friends. Compare notes and ask each other questions.
6. Know what your learning style is, and study in a way that best matches your own learning style.
7. Take short but frequent breaks, like a five minute break after twenty-five minutes of studying.
8. Try to relate what you are studying to things you already know to remember information more easily.
9. Start with the most difficult tasks or assignments, and then move on to the easier ones to focus maximum brain power on the hardest tasks.
10. The quality of your study time is much more important than the quantity of your study time.
11. Get into the habit of studying every day.
12. Try to determine your best study time and plan on studying at that time every day.
13. Think of homework as practice, not work. You know that you don't get better at things like sports or music or cheerleading unless you practice. School's the same.
14. Plan on a fun activity for yourself as a reward for when you are DONE with your studying.
15. After each study session, try to recall the main points and as many details as possible.
16. If you are not sure about something, ask a teacher, parent or friend for help. Asking questions is one of the most effective ways we learn!
17. Plan to spend MORE time (not less time) on the subjects that are harder for you.

ORGANIZATIONAL SKILLS

1. Use things like outlines, charts, or flashcards to help you organize and learn new material. You'll be reviewing the material while you are making these tools, and you'll have them to use later when it's time to study for tests.
2. Use a planner to keep track of homework assignments, tests and projects. Write in your planner every single day so that it becomes a habit!
3. Keep a notebook or folder for all your notes and homework assignments. You might need one for each subject to make things easier.
4. Keep a "To Do" list. Write down things you need to do, then decide what needs to be done right away and what can wait until later.

TIME MANAGEMENT SKILLS

1. For each study period, decide what you want to accomplish and how long you will spend on each subject or assignment.
2. Break your workload down into manageable chunks and take your homework one step at a time.
3. Don't procrastinate (that's a big word that means putting things off). Give yourself plenty of time to get things done by planning ahead and sticking to a schedule.
4. Be aware of things that distract you or waste your time, and keep them to a minimum.

TEST TAKING SKILLS

1. Be well rested before taking tests.
2. Don't cram for tests! It's OK to spend extra time studying the night before a big test, but don't try to learn EVERYTHING that night.
3. Try to find out what type of test you will be taking (essay, multiple choice, True/ False, matching, etc.). It's likely that test questions will be similar to homework you have done, because homework is "practice."
4. DON'T PANIC. Just tackle one question at a time. If a question is too hard, skip it and come back to it later.

NOTE TAKING SKILLS

1. Don't try to write down everything the teacher says. Focus on the main ideas.
2. When you're taking notes, use your own words.
3. Keep your notes organized. They will be as important as the text book.
4. Each night, review the notes you took that day. This will make things easier to remember when it comes time to study for the test.

STRESS MANAGEMENT SKILLS

1. Don't sweat the small stuff. Try to prioritize your activities, and focus on the most important ones.
2. Work off stress through some kind of physical activity. Exercise is a great stress reliever because it takes your mind off of things that are bothering you.

Take care of yourself. Be sure to eat right and get enough sleep. Eating too much or too little, or sleeping too much or too little, can aggravate the stress that you already have.
